

PERFECT RULER GUIDE for VINYL ALIGNMENT on T-SHIRTS

DIY

1. TTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTT
2. TTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTT
3. TTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTT
4. TTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTT
5. TTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTTT

WIDELY USE

8. The heat press is a machine that uses heat and pressure to transfer designs onto fabric. It is used to create custom t-shirts, hoodies, and other apparel. The process involves placing the fabric in the press, aligning the design, and pressing it for a set time and temperature. The result is a durable, long-lasting design that can withstand washing and wear.

PVC is a type of material that is used in the heat press process. It is a plastic material that is used to create designs on fabric. PVC is known for its durability and resistance to fading. It is a popular choice for creating custom t-shirts and other apparel.

UV is a type of light that is used in the heat press process. It is a type of light that is used to cure the ink or design on the fabric. UV light is used to ensure that the design is properly cured and will last for a long time.

T is a type of material that is used in the heat press process. It is a type of material that is used to create designs on fabric. T is known for its durability and resistance to fading. It is a popular choice for creating custom t-shirts and other apparel.

HTV is a type of material that is used in the heat press process. It is a type of material that is used to create designs on fabric. HTV is known for its durability and resistance to fading. It is a popular choice for creating custom t-shirts and other apparel.

[illegible]

□ □

Microtec

- □□□□□□□□ □□□□□□□□□□□□
- 2□□□□□ □□□□□
- 5□□□□□ □□□□□□
- 5□□□□□ □□□□□□
- 6□□□□□ □□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□□

[illegible]